Coggno Releases a New Marketplace

San Jose, CA - Coggno, an online training marketplace that specializes in providing training for small and medium enterprises, releases a new Marketplace.

The new Marketplace will focus on trainees successfully navigating, finding their training and completing it simply to facilitate a streamlined learner experience. Buttons and icons are clearer, the search bar is more noticeable, and the course catalog is more responsive. You'll also notice some subtle improvements in navigation tabs across the website, making it easier to use and filter out only what you need to see and what course you want to take.

Tod Browndorf, CEO of Coggno said; " With the increasing demand for ala-carte training we continue enriching our platform with more customer-centric features.

About Coggno, Inc.: Coggno is an online training marketplace and learning management system (LMS) that brings together content creators, HR organizations, and employees in a single, cloud-based ecosystem – enabling simplified training and certification anywhere in the world.
